

Water Purifier

OfficeGem Essentials presents the experience: Purity of Mountain-Fresh Water - Right in Your Home

We all crave high-quality water because our bodies thrive on it. While bottled water is convenient and thirst-quenching, nothing compares to the unmatched purity of mountain-fresh water, naturally filtered by rocks as it flows down streams.

Most of us know the journey our tap water takes—chemically treated, pumped through miles of metal pipes with unnatural bends, losing its natural vitality along the way. In contrast, fresh mountain water, chilled to its natural temperature of 4°C, is alive with energy. It's refreshing, revitalizing, and rich in purity. So how can you bring that same purity and vitality into your home?

Introducing Theragem Technology - a fusion of light, colour, electromagnetic frequencies, precious metals, and gemstones. This system doesn't just purify water—it enhances it, revitalizing your body at the cellular level.

Our unique blend of stones, including the renowned Shungite, ensures your water is clean, pure, and full of life-enhancing energy.

With every glass, the water is infused with a positive blend of electromagnetic fields (EMF), charging each molecule with vital energy, while naturally eliminating any negative charges and impurities.

Our Living Water Vortexer, a customer favourite, has already transformed countless lives by creating mountain-fresh pure water right in their homes.

"Filtered Water, Elevated!"

"Our family has always used a water filter system and thought the improvement was significant. But after using the OfficeGem Water Purifier, the water reached a whole new level of purity—no smell, crisper taste, and even felt colder! We highly recommend trying it, even if you already use a filter."

"Unbeatable Freshness!"

"Having used the Living Water Vortexer, I didn't think water could taste better. But the OfficeGem Purifier took it to another level. Every sip leaves me feeling refreshed, and my teeth even feel cleaner for longer!"

"A Sip Like Fine Wine!"

"It's remarkable how subtle and refined the water tastes. Drinking water feels like an experience with layers of overtones and undertones. Truly impressive!"

Research & information

Masaru Emoto's Water Consciousness Research

Masaru Emoto's research on "water consciousness" suggests that water can be affected by thoughts, words, and intentions. He conducted experiments exposing water to positive phrases like "love" and "gratitude" or negative words like "hate" and "anger," then froze the water to observe the ice crystals under a microscope. Water exposed to positive influences formed beautiful, intricate crystals, while negative influences led to disordered shapes. Emoto's findings suggest that human emotions and words can alter the structure of water, and by extension, our well-being, given that the human body is largely composed of water.

Effect of Theragem Technology on Water

Theragem technology, which blends electromagnetic frequencies, light, colour, and crystals, enhance water's energetic properties. The idea is that this combination can restructure water at a molecular level, revitalizing its natural energy and removing any negative energetic imprints. The purified water is said to help restore balance and vitality to the body when consumed. By using gems and precious metals, the water's molecular structure is reorganized, making it more vibrant and energetically charged.

Water Purification with Gems

Water purification using gems, particularly stones like shungite, has been practiced for its supposed ability to detoxify and energize water. The theory is that specific stones can infuse water with beneficial vibrational frequencies, resulting in a more "alive" water that is better for health. The properties of these gems and crystals are believed to act as natural filters, improving both the taste and the energetic quality of the water, making it more akin to pure mountain spring water.
